Publication in TDX: summary of the Contract between the author of the thesis and Pompeu Fabra University

The contract signed by the UPF, represented by the Vice-Rector for Postgraduate and Doctoral Studies, and the author of the doctoral thesis, regulates a number of matters which we have attempted to summarize below, bearing in mind that the only binding terms for both parties are those established in the contract signed by them:

The author warrants that he or she is the sole and exclusive holder of the exploitation rights to the doctoral thesis and therefore that no third party rights are breached by signing the agreement. In the event of the existence of rights of other persons involved (e.g. co-authors), the author warrants the he or she has obtained the consent of such other person or persons.

The object of the agreement is the assignment by the author to the University, free of charge and for an indefinite term, and exclusively for research and teaching purposes, of the rights to:

- adapt the thesis to the extent necessary to conform to the format, image or appearance of Internet.
- reproduce the thesis in digital form for inclusion in the TDX (database of full-text, electronic format versions for dissemination on the Internet of doctoral theses read at the universities of Catalonia and other autonomous communities), including the right to store it on servers, the right to make any necessary temporary copy to allow users to view, reproduce or record the thesis on the hard drive of their PC, or on paper for private use and/or for study and research purposes.
- public communication or placing the doctoral thesis on the Internet.

These rights may be assigned by the University solely and exclusively to the CBUC/CESCA but abiding at all times by the terms established in this agreement. The CBUC is the Consortium of University Libraries of Catalonia (of which the University is a member) and the CESCA is the Supercomputing Centre of Catalonia Consortium, and these two organizations have created the TDX database.

The University acquires the right to include the thesis on the Internet, but not the obligation to do so. And it warrants that the name of the author and of the University will appear. The University does not accept any liability for any subsequent use of the doctoral thesis by users.

Both parties undertake to inform each other of any breach of intellectual property rights that come to their knowledge and to provide the necessary collaboration in order to defend the aforesaid rights.

The University does not accept responsibility for the content of the doctoral thesis, which is the author’s responsibility. The author will inform the University of any error or incident that he or she is aware of in relation to the doctoral thesis so that the University can take the appropriate measures.

The agreement is for an indefinite term and is binding on the parties and their successors, but either of the parties may terminate it on account of breach by the other party of any of the obligations established in the agreement.

The agreement shall be governed by Spanish legislation and shall come into effect on the date it is signed.