

UniversitatDepartamentPompeu Fabrade Ciències ExperimentalsBarcelonai de la Salut

Date of publication of the job offer: November 18th

Job title: research support technician

Job description

The Comparative Genomics Lab (UPF) is seeking a research technician who can work effectively, execute experiments of different projects on-going in the laboratory and provide experimental support to researchers. Among others, the candidates will prepare non-invasive and historical samples for Next Generation Sequencing and will work with mammalian cell cultures.

Project and Institution that finance the contract: "La Caixa"

Official number reference: PRFUN00219

Information on the minimum requirements

- Experience in running a general laboratory
- Experience in general laboratory techniques
- Experience in cellular and molecular techniques
- Previous experience in preparation of libraries for Next Generation Sequencing will be valued
- Capacity to work independently and as part of a team
- Good communication skills in English

Benefits of the opening

A six-month full time contract, with a monthly gross salary 2.028,41€

Information on the application process : Contact : esther.lizano@upf.edu

Deadline to submit applications : November 29th