

Date of publication of the offer: April 4, 2022

Job title Full Time Postdoctoral Position

One year visiting position with teaching duties in Macroeconomics at the Department of Economics, Pompeu Fabra University, Barcelona, Spain.

The Department of Economics at Pompeu Fabra University invites applications for a 1 year position (renewable for up to three years) with teaching duties in Macroeconomics, for the period September 2022 to August 2023.

The candidate is expected to teach courses in the fields of Macroeconomics and International Economics, with a teaching load equivalent to that of full time permanent faculty (160 hours). The language of the courses to be covered is primarily English, so good knowledge of Spanish is not a required condition.

The candidate will also become part of the vibrant macroeconomics community at UPF and CREI, with weekly internal and external research seminars.

Profile of candidates: a PhD in Economics on a topic related to Macroeconomics or International Economics. Good analytical and methodological skills. Good teaching skills. Excellent spoken and written English.

Salary: The position, benefits and payment are regulated by a postdoctoral labour contract at UPF. Salary will be 35,766 € (annual gross).

How to apply: please send your application by email to andrea.caggese@upd.edu, including the following documents:

- A cover letter detailing your teaching and research interests.
- A detailed CV including information on relevant methodological training, teaching and research experience.
- Teaching evaluations from previous courses taught as well as the name of at least one referee.

Deadline: 10 may 2022.