
University Master of Public Health

The Interuniversity Master of Public Health (UPF-UAB) is designed for people who want to develop their professional careers in any area of public health. The programme provides the knowledge and tools necessary to work on today's population health challenges and to address them with collective interventions through the promotion, protection, and restoration of health, using appropriate methodologies.

Professional opportunities Graduates of the Master develop their careers in state, regional, and local administration, pharmaceutical, biotechnology, food, and environmental companies, health or social services, as researchers, or continue on to pursue doctoral studies.

Calendar From September to June / 2 academic years (120 ECTS)

Tracks

- Research (leading to doctoral studies)
- Professional (including residents in Preventive Medicine and Public Health)

Language Spanish (with electives in English)

Online Diploma of Public Health

The Diploma of Public Health is a postgraduate course designed for people who seek to acquire a comprehensive view of public health today, as well as basic skills that can be employed in public administration and with other organisations.

Calendar From September to July (30 ECTS)

Languaje Spanish

Public and Global Health in Barcelona

Master's Degrees & Diplomas

Master of Global Health

The Master of Global Health is designed for people who want to develop their professional careers in the field of health from a global and transdisciplinary perspective. The programme provides the knowledge and tools necessary to tackle health challenges in a globalised world and to join organisations that work to rectify inequities in health around the world.

Professional opportunities Graduates of the Master develop their careers in international organisations, NGOs, ministries of health, development cooperation agencies, public-private partnerships, and with other actors within the international community dedicated to global health.

Calendar From September to June / 1 academic year (60 ECTS)

Tracks

- Transdisciplinary Studies in Global Health
- tropEd Master of International Health www.tropEd.org

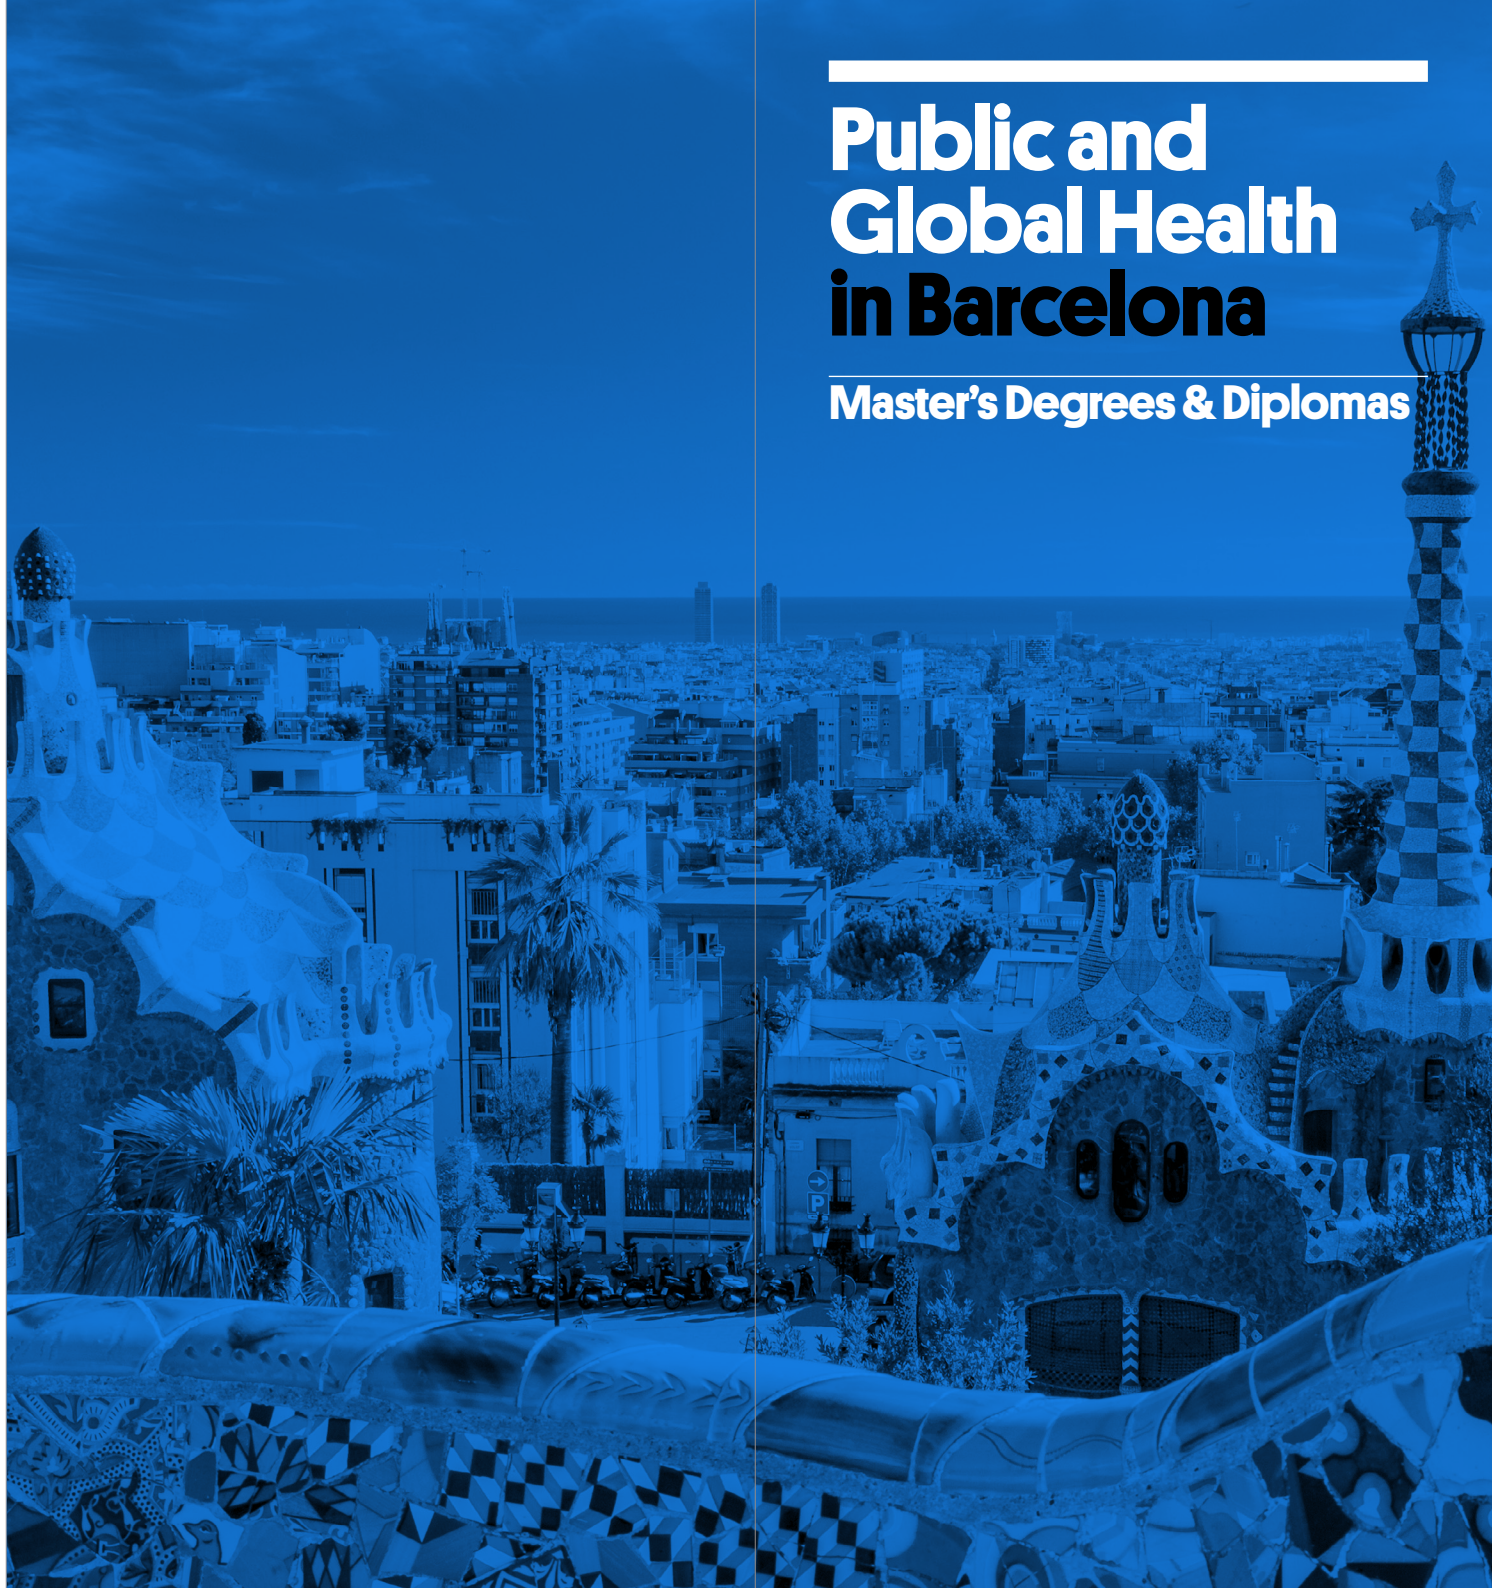

Language English

Diploma of Global Health Fundamentals

The Diploma of Global Health Fundamentals is a postgraduate course designed for people who seek to acquire basic knowledge in the field of global health from a global and transdisciplinary perspective.

Calendar From September to January (30 ECTS)

Language English

Public and Global Health in Barcelona

University Master of Public Health

2 years / in Spanish

Join the leading edge of professionals working to improve health, here, and around the world.

Master of Global Health

1 year / in English

More information:

Public Health
www.upf.edu/web/saludpublica
Global Health
www.mastersaludglobal.org

Online Diploma of Public Health

1 year / in Spanish

In collaboration with:

Diploma of Fundamentals in Global Health

4 months / in English

