

Diederik Boertien is a sociologist currently working at the Centre d'Estudis Demogràfics in Barcelona. He obtained his PhD in 2013 at Universitat Pompeu Fabra, and has been a Max Weber and Research Fellow at the European University Institute in Florence (2013-2016). His main research interests lie on the intersection of family demography and the study of social stratification.