

Prof. Luca De Benedictis currently works at the Department of Economics and Law, University of Macerata, Italy. He has been teaching international trade courses at the graduate and undergraduate level in several contexts, from the University Roma Tre, to the Italian Institute for Foreign Trade (ICE), to the AGRODEP consortium in Dakar, Senegal. His main research interests are in the areas of applied econometrics, gravity models of international trade and migration, causal inference and network analysis. He has published more than fifty articles in international peer-reviewed journals such as The World Economy; The Review of World Economics; The Journal of the Royal Statistical Society – C; and Network Science.