

Date of publication of the offer: February 1st 2022

Position:

Postdoc researcher on democratic theory, transnational and global democracy, and the ethics of voting

Description of tasks

The researcher will become member of a research group at Pompeu Fabra University specialized on democratic theory, citizen engagement and participation, deliberative democracy and electoral processes at local, national and transnational and global levels. The researcher is expected to be able to conduct research on how to improve the quality and legitimacy of our democracies, and on how to enhance electoral and non-electoral political participation at a transnational, European and global levels. The aim of this job is to collaborate in the research of the REDEM project within the European network of that project. A good part of that collaboration will have to do with exploring new ways of citizen engagement and democratic legitimacy that prevent global and transnational domination.

Funding institution, project title and project reference

European Commission. H2020 REDEM project on “Reconstructing Democracy in Times of Crisis: A Voter Centred-Perspective”. H2020-SC6-Governance-2019. Project number: 870996

Requirements of candidates

Candidates must be experts on legal theory and philosophy, democratic theory and political philosophy with a focus on electoral systems, citizen participation, and transnational domination.

They must be early stage researchers.

They must have a PhD, and a background in law, political science, or philosophy, with a special focus in legal and political philosophy and democratic theory, and more specifically in political participation and the quality of democratic systems.

Features of the contract

Six months Full Time Postdoc Project Researcher position, with a gross salary of approximately 2690,40 € per month according to [UPF pay scales, INV-PROJ tipus 2: Investigador ordinari].

Information about the application process

Candidates must send the application documents by email to rrhh.dret@upf.edu with the following reference: Ref. REDEM Postdoc Application – IPR_PHIL1_2022.

Documents required:

- Curriculum Vitae
- A motivation letter
- Up to two letters of recommendation
- 1 sample writing (a published or unpublished article or book chapter)

Assessment criteria

Description of the criteria for the assessment of candidates and the number of points assigned to them (out of 100):

- Research capacity judged by the impact achieved (education background, publications, conference presentations, etc.): up to 30 points
- Knowledge and mastership over the Project's research topics: up to 30 points
- Quality of the sample writing: up to 20 points
- Letter of motivation: up to 10 points
- Letters of recommendation: up to 10 points

Deadline to submit applications: February 15th

Approximate incorporation of the successful candidate: March/April 2022