Offer Description

Offer Description

Starting in August/September 2026, Professor Dmitry Kuvshinov seeks to hire a predoctoral assistant for his ERC-funded research project analyzing liquidity and safe-asset dynamics around historical financial crisis events (more info here <https://dkuvshinov.com/> ↗#erc).

The chosen candidate(s) will provide support with the construction of a historical cross-country database of the prices, yields, and liquidity for different financial assets. Tasks include:

- Locating the primary historical data sources.
- Managing the data extraction from located sources (done primarily through external data entry companies).
- Cleaning the data and integrating it into the database.
- Performing preliminary empirical analysis of the collected data and presenting results to the team.

The position is based at Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Barcelona, Spain.
