Main features

The objective is to offer 175 fellowships to contract doctors during 5 years in order to foster research activities.

Applicants

• Institutions: Departments
• Candidates: Doctors

Candidate’s requirements:

• Date of Doctor award (defense and thesis approval): the candidate must hold a Doctor degree awarded between 01/01/2007 and 31/12/2014 (check the reasons for extension in article 22.1.a) of the call).
• The candidate cannot have benefitted from a Ramón y Cajal fellowship before even if he/she did not end up joining the institution. Candidates included in concession resolutions will be automatically excluded.
• If the candidate is awarded with a Juan de la Cierva (training or hiring) or any other postdoctoral fellowship, he/she will need to wait for a contract year in order to apply for a RYC Fellowship (to count on from the incorporation date until 01/06/2018 and excluding suspension periods). This is also valid for candidates who were included in the concession resolution even if they did not end up joining the institution.
• In case the candidate holds more than one doctoral degree, the first one will be considered.

Mobility requirements:
The candidate must have carried out postdoctoral stays of minimum 24 months at another institution from his/her home institution. This time frame will be considered until the deadline for presentation of the hiring agreements (most probably in July 2018).

Incompatibilities

• The Ramón y Cajal fellowship is incompatible with any working contract
• Teaching: up to 80 hours per year.

• The candidate does not have to have the university’s previous acceptance. Candidates apply while at the same time institutions make their offer. Once ANEP has properly evaluated, candidates and institutions will consequently sign the hiring agreement.
