

PhD Fall Seminars

Political & Social Sciences

October- December, 2020

The seminars will take place on Wednesdays at 2pm. The aim of the sessions is to receive feedback on a draft paper or a methodology challenge in an organised but still informal way.

Papers will be presented Online. The online seminars will allow for powerpoint presentations, and will be conducted similar to conference seminars.

This is the link to join the ZOOM videoconference:

<https://zoom.us/j/95792468548>

Meeting ID: 957 9246 8548

Please, remember to send your draft article or work segment to participants beforehand. At the seminar, you will have 15 mins to briefly discuss your topic and then the remaining 45 minutes will be dedicated to feedback. One consideration for in-person seminars is that it is highly reliant on attendees to read your work beforehand in order to provide adequate feedback.

Date	Author	Format	Presentation
October 14 th	Ibrahim Sönmez	In person	Internalized homonegativity and sexual risk behaviour
October 21 st	Harold Mera León	Online	Parental education, conflict and in-utero life wellbeing
October 28 th	Kimberly Goulart	Online	Unemployment scarring effects on job quality

November 4 th	Jon Kent	Online	Using geolocated tweets to calibrate citizen science
November 11 th	Clara Rodríguez Ribas	Online	Adolescent Pregnancy and Public Policy: A scoping review of available evidence from Latin America and the Caribbean
November 18 th	Andreu Paneque	Online	Descriptive Representation and Political Elites
November 25 th	Alexandra Lipasova	Online	Measuring fathers' involvement in childcare
December 2 nd	Sohail Jannessari	Online	Voting for Ahmadinejad in Iranian elections
December 9 th	Elia Susanna i López	Cancelled	Democracy, Violence and Tradition in Post-Taliban Afghanistan. A Political Ethnography on Conflict Culture.
December 16 th	Zouhair Hairan	Online	2 nd Generation Moroccan Entrepreneurs: transnational dynamics & diaspora policies