

CALL FOR PAPERS:
SUSTAINABILITY, DIGITAL MARKETS &
THE DIGITAL REVOLUTION
SEPTEMBER 8 and 9TH 2022

Call for Papers International Conference

Greening Consumer Welfare: Towards a new perspective on consumer protection

Universitat Pompeu Fabra, September 8th, 2022

The conference will focus – among others - on the legal analysis of consumer protection through the lens of sustainability and climate crisis concerns. The conference welcomes contributions on any topic related to the redefinition of consumer protection regulation under environmental and social sustainability concerns from an experimental, empirical, economic, or purely normative perspectives.

Call for Papers UPF Workshop

Making the data revolution sustainable

Universitat Pompeu Fabra, September 9th, 2022

The Workshop will focus – among others - on the impact of artificial intelligence, digitalization processes, data centers and platform consumption on sustainability goals and climate crisis concerns. We want to bring together multiple disciplinary perspectives on these issues, including political and social sciences, law, economics and ecology. These activities will harness ongoing research by faculty and graduate students and help to link them with wider academic networks.

Submissions for the Conference and/or Workshop should be sent as a final paper (including an abstract of 200 words) or as an outline of minimum 2 pages to planet@upf.edu until August 1st 2022. Submissions by women and underrepresented minorities are particularly welcome.

Limited financial aid is available for few invited speakers and for selected papers presented by PhD candidates. The International Conference and the Workshop will take place jointly and participants are welcome to submit for one of the events and participate in both.

Communication of acceptance will be by August 10th, 2022 and final papers are due on September 1st 2022.

Selected communications may be published in a special issue of an indexed journal or as a book chapter (information will be provided in due course).

For further information, please contact planet@upf.edu
